Welcome

Welcome to StarTypes, your personal astrology report written and illustrated by astrologer/author Michael Erlewine who, with over 40 years of experience in astrology, has written some twenty-some books on astrology and dozens of computer astrological programs. Erlewine writes:

"I have lectured, taught classes, and done private consultations for more years than I want to think about. What I have found works best is a one-to-one presentation of the astrological chart - your personal astrology. In the StarTypes reports, I have tried to do just that: walk you through what is most important about your astrology chart, step-by-step, just as I would if we sat down together for a chart reading. StarTypes Reports are illustrated and easy to read. After all, they are all about you!"

Patterns in the Sky

StarTypes astrology is both ancient and modern. It is ancient, because it uses the traditional natal chart that astrologers have used throughout history. It is modern because it also takes advantage of what astronomers have learned about the heavens and our solar system in these modern times. The result is a unique combination of ancient and modern astrology that provides a unique perspective on your particular birth chart and therefore your life. This is how it works:

StarType analysis plots large-scale planetary patterns as seen from Earth and compares those patterns to corresponding patterns astronomers see functioning throughout our entire solar system. StarTypes charts not only the outer circumstances of your birth (your personality and Karma), but also the internal and spiritual qualities embedded in that same moment, your inner motivation, what has been called your Dharma or Life Path. The result is an enhanced perspective that in effect amounts to a stereo image of your birth moment and chart, looking inside and out.

StarTypes analysis offers a very complete perspective on your birth moment, with insights into what talents you naturally have, how those talents might be used, as well as your relationship role with partners, romantic and otherwise. Check it out. What follows is your own StarType report. I hope you enjoy it.

StarType for Dennis

The heavens above and surrounding us are in constant change as the Sun, Moon, and planets move in their orbits to create vast kaleidoscope-like patterns in the sky, what has been rightly called "The Cosmic Dance." StarType analysis sorts through these many changing patterns and isolates the strongest and most pronounced pattern in effect at the moment of your birth. This cosmic pattern or archetype is your "StarType," and it best represents what is happening in the heavens at the moment of your birth. All in all there are some sixty major StarType patterns that have been recognized, and each represents a particular kind of individual and approach to life.

Your StarType is more than just your personality and the circumstances in which you happen to find yourself in life. It also describes who you are at heart, the real inner you behind all that is going on the outside, plus your possibilities - how you look at and approach life. StarTypes reveal the 'you' as only your closest friends know you, as you know yourself. What follows is a description of our StarType.

This StarType:

Dennis likes attention and probably demands (and usually gets) lots of it. Whatever is going on, he tends to gravitate to the center of any group, where the action is at - the life of the party. This is because at heart he is warm and charismatic, most definitely a touchy-feeling sort of person. People like him and like to be around him. Dennis is probably in-demand for dinner dates and parties. Why? Because he is fun! Sometimes Dennis feels like he has to protect his privacy and does not like being hemmed in and pinned down by claustrophobic situations.

This StarType:

This is a VERY balanced and powerful StarType, one that is for most purposes quite independent. Leslie can do it all, should she choose to do so. She has considerable magnetism and charisma, making her popular and probably at the center of attention, when in a group. She can express forth with the best of them and is not shy.

On the other hand, she has exceptional vision and the ability to put things into perspective. She can see it all. This translates into practical vision and the ability to take in a situation at a glance and know just what to do about it - the 'big picture'.

Perhaps best of all, these two qualities, that of real vision, coupled with a natural intuitive sense for people and situations, work together seamlessly. In fact, her mind and ability to grasp abstract concepts is working in a very precise way with an equal ability to accomplish and put her plans into action. The precision of this coordination of mind and hand is very unusual.

Approach to Relationships

Approach to Relationships - Dennis

Dennis is used to being the center of attention, and in most relationships he tends to take on the role of the loved one, allowing (and preferring) to let others look after him, even dote on him. This is not arrogance, but quite natural.

Approach to Relationships

Approach to Relationships - Leslie

With all this going for her, it should not be surprising to learn that on the relationship front; Leslie is pretty darned independent. She can enjoy relationships, but is not dependent on them. Leslie can take them or leave them. It is up to her. This is not to suggest that she is unfriendly or would not make a good partner, but it does indicate that it may well be on her terms. She can relate equally well to RED and GREEN StarType patterns. With the RED StarTypes, she will find it easier to use her strong mental qualities and take on the role of the love or caretaker, letting them be the loved one in the relationship. On the other hand, with GREEN StarTypes, she will be more comfortable taking on the role of the loved one, the object of affection, allowing them to administer and take care of her.

Again: it is up to her. Or, Leslie may just prefer, at times, to exist alone, an island unto herself, not in particular need of relationships. In this regard, she has the capability of being a true independent.

Things Are Not Always What They Seem - Dennis

Things are not always what they seem, especially when meeting someone for the first time. How do those around you see you? Are you a "What You See Is What You Get" type or are you a "What You See is Not What You Get" type. Are you different once folks get to know you? StarTypes has way of measuring the difference.

On the following page is a comparison of the traditional astrology chart of the outer appearances of this individual (personality), the way this person comes across AND the chart of their inner Self (Dharma chart), the individual as they are when you come to know them better. This will give you an idea if what you see is in fact what you get.

Your Inner and Outer StarTypes

Inner StarType

Outer StarType

Above find your inner and outer StarType cards. Perhaps the more important of the two is the inner StarType, the one on the left. This is what is called your Dharma of Life-Path Chart. It is who you are inside, as people get to know you. This is your heart essence, how you function in this world.

On the right is the chart of how you appear to others, your personality, the way you come across upon first contact - the initial impression. These two cards can be similar in type and function or very different. If the border color of the cards is the same (green, red, blue, or rose), then you are more-or-less how you appear, that is: what you see is what you get. If they are different, colors, then you may be quite different on first impression than you are when people get to know you. In that case, what you see is not what you get.

StarType Appearances

You Are NOT What You Appear To Be

On the surface Dennis appears Independent, sometimes a little distant. Quite practical, with some vision, and able to manage most things. Balanced.

Appearances aside, Dennis in fact is Warm, gregarious, and friendly, the life of the party, and the object of attention much of the time - a people person..

StarType Appearances

You Are What You Appear To Be

There is no difference between how this person appears and how they are when you get to know them. What you see is what you get. is Independent, sometimes a little distant. Very strong mind, able to use words and ideas with ease. Broad vision, and very practical. Gets things done.

Star★Types Relationships

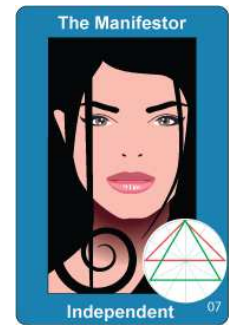

The table on this page represents the essential StarType elements for each partner, and not just the key StarType for each. These main elements are marked with a checkmark along the left and right sides of the table, along with how many times they occur, their StarType number, and a percentage indication as to how strong the element is (100% is the strongest possible). The four basic relationship types are color-coded from top to bottom, with green for the “Lover” StarType, red for the “Loved One” StarType, blue for the “Independent” StarType, pink for the ‘Multi-relational” StarType, and yellow for other types.

The purpose of the table is to let you see at a glance the various components of the relationship and their strengths.

Dennis is used to being the center of attention, and in most relationships he tends to take on the role of the loved one, allowing (and preferring) to let others look after him, even dote on him. This is not arrogance, but quite natural.

Dennis, an example of the T-Square type, has excellent intuition, good hunches, and is able to feel things out on a practical level. Because he is so 'in touch' and involved (deep in there), he sometimes has trouble getting the big picture, and can't see the forest because of the trees. Dennis can benefit from StarTypes that are less involved, run a little cooler, and stand a little farther back from the action. Examples of good advisers include many of the GREEN BORDER card types, with the label "The Lover" as a relationship type. When checking for relationships, look for those, but there are others. Look for the Grand Trine pattern, which is the large green triangle. As for the blue-bordered cards, not shown here, keep in mind that they have the qualities of both the red-bordered and the green-bordered cards within their makeup. When relating to them, Dennis will want to invoke the care-giving and advice giving aspect of them. Call out the lover in these StarTypes, with Dennis being the loved one that they care for.

Leslie's relationship orientation was pretty much covered above, but to sum it up: She may well tend to be a loner, quite happy to entertain herself. No real suffering here, for her being on her own a lot. She enjoys it. There is very little that she does not have within her own talents. If anything, she might try to seek out the StarType (#3) of the red-bordered cards, since they have even more embedded feeling than she does. There is something there to learn from. As for other blue-bordered cards like her, she would have the best chance of a stable relationship with any of the blue-bordered cards that have what is called a Grand Cross in them, which is a 4-sided red square.

Dennis: StarType #01, "The Charismatic"

Leslie: StarType #07, "The Manifestor"

An interesting combination, but not necessarily a smooth ride. As for role playing, Dennis will have to assume the role of the loved one, the object of love, and Leslie the role of provider and lover. Leslie should have no trouble caring for Dennis, since she naturally is very responsible, naturally aware, and takes the big picture in at a glance. So far, so good.

The problem here is that, although Dennis loves, deserves, and is used to being given a lot of attention, Leslie also has some of this same need herself. In addition to all of her natural sense of responsibility, Leslie occasionally requires some looking after too. This is where heads may bump, because both can't be waited on at once.

Also, while Dennis is, by nature quite used to and dependent on relationships, Leslie is not as dependent on them, and, by type, is much more self-sufficient and independent. In other words, Leslie is not as reliant on relationships or partnerships in general, and quite content to be by herself from time to time.

Lovers Comparison

This is a workable combination, but the accent is on work, since some may be involved. In relationships, some chemistry is required and to achieve that there has to be some opposition, like a lover and a loved one. Here is how that works out in this combination.

First, forget about equality here. Dennis cares more and Leslie cares less, so get used to it. Leslie will have to take over the role of the lover, although she also likes attention and may require a little loving of her own. However, Dennis is constructed to play only one role, and that is the role of the loved one, the center of attention. It is not natural for him to act as caretaker of a relationship. He is a high-maintenance type.

Actually, Leslie can play either role, that of lover or loved one, depending on the needs of her partner, so this, as mentioned above, can result in complications, in particular when she could use a little attention herself. Dennis is not likely to take on that role. So provided, the above be kept in mind, this is a very workable relationship.

The Inner Relationships

This may not be the easiest combination to work out because there are some incompatibilities. The greatest difficulty may be the fact that Leslie is just way more independent and self-centered than Dennis, and does not need much of anyone outside of HIS2 own concerns. And it is not as if Dennis is any slouch when it comes being selfish or self-centered. It is just that, unlike Leslie, Dennis needs other people to feel whole. Dennis is interdependent, rather than independent of others. There you have the rub, as they say.

A working situation between these two may depend on Leslie tearing herself away from HIS2 own interests long enough to care for and guide Dennis, whose nature is not as aware of things as that of Leslie. Help is not likely to come from Dennis in all of this because he tends to be relatively unaware of what others think and is not really a 'thinker" himself, but more of a doer - intuitive, but practical.

As mentioned, Leslie is pretty complete as a person just as HE2 is and HIS2 independence may appear to others as coldness or aloofness, and that HE2 just does not care. This could end up hurting Dennis and causing him to withdraw from the relationship. So, to repeat, a successful relationship depends on Leslie taking the time to lead and guide Dennis.

Profile Summary

Profile Summary for Dennis

Dennis is primarily a people person, a team player, not afraid of a crowd and the social life. He is probably a warm, gregarious, people person, who is good at hands-on, one-on-one, face-to-face business relationships. He would make a perfect rep or salesperson and works best in the midst of the action, as part of a work team. Dennis would make an excellent group leader and almost everyone is naturally attracted to and enjoys being around him, and working with him. No better person to take the visiting guest out to lunch - always practical.

Dennis is probably not going to be too happy in management, where there is less contact with the group and cold decisions have to be made on a regular basis, which goes against his grain. He is more touchy-feely than cerebral, and tends to take things in a linear fashion, a day at a time, rather than scope out the overall pattern of things in advance. Works FROM a plan better than CREATES the plan. Tends to see the trees, but not always the forest.

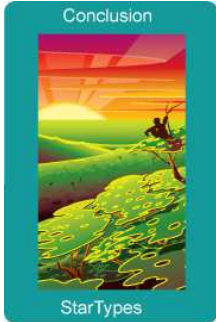

Profile Summary for Leslie

Leslie has many talents, the most prominent being her clear mind, which is very good at spotting details, and grasping the overall patterns of where things are going and how they fit together. She not only can pick things up mentally, but also can do something about what she sees. Leslie can also get things done, putting the plan into action. Her many skills make her good at a variety of management tasks, but perhaps perfect as a mid-level manager, a go-between for management and the work team. She can see both sides, understanding management's plans, but also can communicate and shares feelings with the work team.

By inclination, Leslie would tend to best represent management rather than the workforce. Very talented and not a lot missing here. If anything, Leslie may be at times too theoretical and not practical enough. Also, she is very independent and does not need the social interrelationships that many do. This could result in some distance, which may at times be off-putting to those around her. She also may have a tendency to fall back on her people skills, and get a bit lazy when it comes to responsibility. In other words, she goes both ways: She can manage a group, but also take direction from management.

Conclusion

This concludes your StarType Compatibility Report. In this report we have tried to point out not only the individual characteristics of each partner and how they might approach relationships, but also how the two partners may interface and get along. StarTypes compatibility represents the potential for the relationship and the relationship roles each of the partners naturally find comfortable. We hope you have enjoyed it.
